Knoll

The Knoll commitment to innovation and modern design has created an enviable portfolio of residential furniture with designs exhibited in major art museums worldwide, and more than 40 pieces in the permanent Design Collections of The Museum of Modern Art in New York. At Knoll, modern design has been the guiding principle, and that passion has been shared by customers worldwide. The Knoll founders, Hans and Florence Knoll, embraced the creative genius at the Cranbrook Academy of Art and the Bauhaus School to create new types of furniture. In their approach, craftsmanship joined technology through design.

RICHARD SCHULTZ

Richard Schultz worked with Harry Bertoia during the development of Bertoia's iconic collection of wire chairs. Some years later, Florence Knoll specifically asked Schultz to create a collection of furniture that could be used outdoors. The result was the "Leisure Collection" (now sold as the "1966 Collection") which became an instant classic.

DAVID ADJAYE

Established in June 2000, Adjaye Associates was founded by David Adjaye, who is widely recognized as one of the leading architects of his generation. The practice has gained international renown with work in Europe, North America, the Middle East, Asia and Africa, distinguished by its insightful cultural engagement and the transformative civic qualities of its buildings. Current work includes the design of the Smithsonian Institution's new Museum of African American History and Culture on the National Mall in Washington D.C. The Washington Collection for Knoll transforms Adjaye's architectural and sculptural vision into accessible objects for the home and office.

EERO SAARINEN

Saarinen's work for Knoll, which includes the revolutionary 1957 series of Tulip Chairs and Pedestal Tables, has resulted in designs that have become major icons of the post war era.

In his purist approach to architecture and interior design, Eero Saarinen sought the essential idea and reduced it to the most effective structural solution within an overall unity of design. In his Pedestal Table Collection, which includes dining, coffee and side tables, Saarinen realized his ideal of formal unity.

HARRY BERTOIA

Italian sculptor, university lecturer and furniture designer Harry Bertoia showed a stroke of genius with his patented Bertoia Collection for Knoll in 1952. An inventor of form, who explored new boundaries for furniture, Bertoia turned industrial rods into a design icon.
